

Newsletter #4: Adoptions

Dear Sponsor,

We hope this letter finds you well! We want to thank you once again for all your support. Thanks to you, we can continue our mission to save animals in Quito. These past few months we have been very busy finding homes for rescues with great success. We have some happy stories to share with you.

Milka: was found by one of our customers while was walking at Itchimbia Park. She brought her to the cafe and we immediately proceeded to call the vet and vaccinated her. Milka got adopted in a record 30 minutes by another frequent customer Elinda Batallas!

Kirby: Kirby was found running in between cars on the Los Chillos highway. Someone was kind enough to tie her to a post so she didn't get run over, but her owners never showed up. The bass player of the Mosaico band picked her up and brought her to us. She is now very happy with her new Canadian family, and she is now Kirby Graham!

Enzo: He was left at the vet's office. The owner asked to have him put down because he no longer wanted him. This is a very common situation when people buy dogs and then don't understand the responsibility involved. Our vet took him in but asked the owner to leave Enzo with him. We found Enzo a loving home with one of our relatives in Quito.

Lula and Manu: These two dogs were alone at an abandoned lot and had a lot of puppies. A friend of ours reported the situation and we immediately brought them to get neutered. They spent some time in a temporary home until they got adopted together by Cristina Garcia.

Obi: Obi's owners could not keep him anymore. They decided to move to Spain and they could not take him along. This is another common situation when people move and abandon their dogs, or they have to give them away because they can't take them. The owner contacted us and asked for help. Nantar Inga, our dear friend from Macas, was born into a family of veterinarians. When she moved back from Quito to Macas she decided to take Obi with her to be her companion.

Negrito: We found him weak and hungry outside our Café. He was scared of humans. He went through a long rehabilitation until he felt comfortable around other people. Our neighbor Carlos adopted him! Happy ending!
